What Employers Want Most

In your opinion, what talent, knowledge, or skills should higher education institutions develop in students to best prepare them for success in the workforce in the coming years?

#1: Internships/on-the-job experience
Current Education Measures are Horribly Insufficient

Inputs
- High School GPA, Rank in Class
- SAT, ACT scores

Outputs
- GPA, Rank in Class
- Retention Rates, Degree Attainment
- Gainful Employment
If graduates strongly agree that they were “emotionally supported” during college, the odds that they are engaged in their work and thriving in their overall well-being double.
Support & Relationships

64% “At least one professor who made me excited about learning”

27% “Professors cared about me as a person”

22% “A mentor who encouraged my goals and dreams”

14% Of all graduates experienced all three
Graduates who had “experiential and deep learning” have a higher likelihood of being engaged in their work (59% vs. 38%), and more are thriving (14% vs. 10%).
Experiential

32% “Long-term project taking a semester or more to complete”

30% “Internship or job where applied learning”

20% “Extremely involved in extracurricular activities and organizations”

6% Of all graduates experienced all three

High Quality Experiences are Linked to Having a Good Job Upon Graduation

31% who visited their career services office had a good job awaiting them upon graduation

49% who rate career services as very helpful had a good job awaiting them upon graduation

34% who didn’t visit their career services office had a good job awaiting them upon graduation
Only 20% of grads have donated to their alma mater in the last 12 months, but those reporting career services was very helpful are more than two and a half times as likely to have donated.
Heavily Indebted Grads More Likely to Visit and Report Not at all Helpful
Key Takeaways: Coming Disruption

It’s about jobs, not degrees

We are what we measure
  – A serious call for new “success” metrics

Staff/faculty engagement key driver of student engagement

Emphasis shift from “entrance” to “exit”

Coming: ‘Voice of the Consumer’
